the boutonniere

Terence's white orchid boutonniere matched Katherine's bouquet.

the gown

Katherine was alone at the salon paying for the bridesmaid dresses when she tried on this gown. Strapless with ruching and rosettes on the mermaid-style skirt, it was the perfect combination of showstopping elegance.

the pets

A bridesmaid escorted Katherine and Terence's dogs down the aisle.

HOW THEY MET Through Katherine's best friend (and maid of honor)

HOW LONG ENGAGED 9 months

THEIR WEDDING STYLE While a sweet color palette of sage green, blush pink and brown created the simple and elegant vibe Katherine and Terence wanted to achieve, details like paper pom-pom décor and monochromatic flowers provided some modern and whimsical touches. —JD

the wedding party looks

The bridesmaids wore sage-green one-shoulder gowns, and the guys wore vests and ties to match.

the place settings

Gold-beaded chargers and blush-pink napkins had a romantic and elegant look.

the centerpieces

The bar tables set up on the patio for cocktail hour were decorated with arrangements of pink roses and orchids.

the cake

Green and brown ribbon and wooden figurine toppers (of the couple and their two dogs) adorned the simple, modern cake.

the centerpieces

Low monochromatic arrangements and floating candles set in tall cylinder vases were dotted down the long banquet tables at the reception.

the bridal bouquet

Katherine carried an all-white bouquet of roses, balsa wood flowers and cymbidium orchids wrapped in silk taffeta ribbon.

the ceremony

Katherine and Terence said their vows outside, before a backdrop of fabric and hanging paper flowers.

the escort cards

For a modern display, the cards were laid flat on a wooden table with pink and white monobotanical flower arrangements and floating candles.

the dessert

Shot glasses filled with tiramisu were a huge hit at the dessert table.

the first dance

Katherine and Terence chose Train's "Marry Me" for their first dance.

the ceremony décor

Nosegay bouquets of all-white flowers were tied to chairs along the ceremony aisle with pink ribbon.
